Product description:

Robert Parker's Wine advocate (Jeb Dunnuck - avr. 2016) : The most concentrated in the lineup, the 2013 IGP Saint Guilhem le Desert Mas de Daumas Gassac is mostly Cabernet Sauvignon, yet includes small amounts of Merlot, Tannat, Cabernet Franc, Malbec, Pinot Noir and others. Aged 12-18 months in barrel, it offers lots of cherry pit, sappy garrigue, graphite, pepper and black raspberries to go with medium-bodied richness, good acidity and a vibrant, balanced profile that should allow it to evolve nicely over the coming 10-15 years. Drink 2016-2031.
